Social Or Business Impact:-

The business impact of a project that uses machine learning to identify patterns and trends in campus placement data could be significant. By analyzing data on factors such as student performance, qualifications, and job placement outcomes, the project could help organizations make more informed decisions about recruiting and hiring new graduates.